

Create a Proactive Culture of Support with Navigate360's Student Well-Being Library

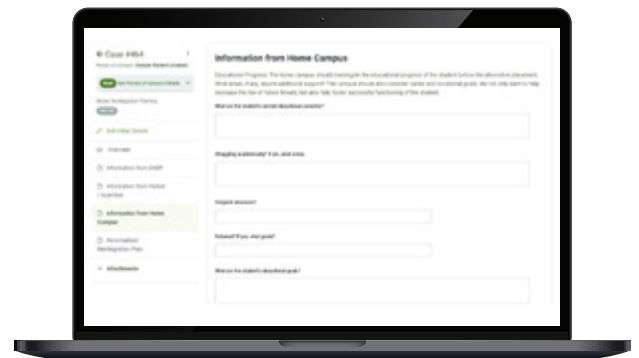

Identify and Track Student Risk Factors in One Central Location

Districts work with diverse student populations who struggle with a myriad of behaviors and situations, from threats and suicide risk to bullying and food insecurity. In order to intervene before situations escalate, it is crucial for schools to be able to identify, intervene, and manage all the concerning behaviors associated with a student. Behaviors and risk factors are often tracked across multiple systems or informally tracked, making accurate assessment and intervention a challenge.

By leveraging the Student Well-Being Library in Navigate360 Behavioral Case Manager, teams can utilize expert-built workflows for assessing and intervening in behaviors frequently exhibited by students. The Student Well-Being Library goes beyond threat assessment and suicide assessment, enabling districts to paint a more thorough picture of how behaviors relate to each other. By better understanding a student's risks, schools can coordinate support across teams and create a proactive culture of support.

Connect the Dots & Identify Trends

The Student Well-Being Library offers tailored assessment and management tools to help schools identify all the risk factors associated with a student and provide early intervention, ensuring students get the help and support they need. Utilizing a cloud-based solution to centralize student information, districts can break down silos to help students earlier and identify trends in campus culture.

Track & Manage Risks with Pre-Built Configurable Processes

Keep it simple and select from a menu of pre-built processes that encompass commonly-used assessment, intervention, and management practices including:

- Student Support
 - Attendance
 - Behavior
 - Discipline
 - Social
 - Emotional
 - Family/Community (including Housing and/or Food Instability)
 - Vocational Skills/ Employment
- Bullying Prevention
- Non-Suicidal Self-Injury
- Title IX
- Reintegration

The Student Well-Being Library is customizable and can be configured in numerous ways to fit a district's needs.

- Localized language to align guidance and support
- Data collection to identify trends and follow-up activities
- Linked processes to provide timely, proactive support and intervention

With nationally-recognized threat assessment and suicide prevention models, a configurable library of support tools, and the ability to add your own processes all in one platform, Navigate360 Behavioral Case Manager offers unparalleled full-student visibility to connect the dots and make informed decisions.

Set a course for zero incidents.

Take a layered, holistic approach to school safety with Navigate360 technology, training, and guidance to move you closer to your goal.

Contact us today to learn how the Student Well-Being Library and Behavioral Case Manager can help your teams provide proactive support to at-risk students.

